ENGLISH RATES AS FAVORITE OVER TANNERS FOR ONCE

Red and Gray Gunning for Fifth Straight Win of Season Today

Undefeated English seeks to remain in the front ranks of the Class A title contenders by racking up its fifth win of the season today over Peabody, already beaten twice in five starts. It is the 22nd annual clash between the two rivals.

Rated a "dark horse" possibility for the state title before the season began, Coach Palombo's team has completed the first half of its schedule in brilliant fashion, allowing only one touchdown in five games. A scoreless tie with Chelsea, caused largely by abominable footing on a muddy field, is the only blemish on an otherwise perfect slate for English.

English has now played 11 straight games without being beaten. The last time the Palombomen suffered a setback was more than a year ago when they were edged by Lawrence, 14 to 13. Since then they've won eight and tied three. In 16 games since Coach Palombo took over, English has been beaten only three times and those three losses were all consecutive and by narrow margins early in 1946.

Over the years since the series began in 1926, Peabody has won 10 games, English has won 6 and there have been five ties. The teams are almost even in total points scored during that period, Peabody with 141 and English with 137.

Since Bill Seeglitz has been coaching the Tanners, English has triumphed only once. That was two years ago when the Red and Gray edged the Tanners 6 to 0 to hand them their only loss of the year in a stunning upset. The boy who scored the touchdown for English, a 15-year-old soph, Dick Cahill, isn't even a regular now.

Last year the teams battled to a thrilling 13 to 13 tie. English was ahead twice but the Tanners came from behind on each occasion to earn a deadlock. Until the 1945 upset, English hadn't won since 1933. Over a 13 year span one win and two ties are all the Lynners have been able to get. From 1935 through 1944, ten long years, English didn't even score a point against Peabody.

This 1947 Tanner edition has been a big surprise right from the start. When it edged powerful Classical, 12 to 7, Leather City fans immediately began to conjure up visions of a possible state championship.

But the Tanners turned around the following week and became the first team in two years to lose a game to Lowell and then last week they were up-ended by Beverly.

Comparative scores don't always mean much, but it's significant that the two teams which have beaten Peabody this year are numbered among the victims of Coach Carl Palombo's machine.

English beat Lowell by two touchdowns, 12 to 0, a week before Lowell whipped Peabody, 16 to 7. Then defeated Beverly, 7 to 0 only seven days before the Garden City eleven triumphed over Peabody, 9 to 0.

On paper at least, English appears to be a couple of touchdowns better than Peabody, and that's the way the game might turn out. But then again, it might not, for these Peabody-English affairs have always been rugged battles, close and hard-fought, with previous performances counting for nothing.

English has a smooth-working ground attack and aerial offense which hasn't been used too much so far. The Red and Gray has good ball-carriers in Capt. Billy Whelan, Les Locke, Al Tagney and Bob Anasoulis, with Whelan ranked as one of the state's best.

COACH CARL PALOMBO

Peabody, in typical Seeglitz style, will seek to combine a strong defense with a crushing ground attack to achieve victory. So far this season the Tanner defense hasn't been as stiff as it has been in other years and the offense hasn't clicked as smoothly. But the Tanners still have great potentialities and if they start to work smoothly, many teams are going to feel their wrath.

Jimmy Smyrnios and Joe Regis, a pair of veteran ball-carriers, are the mainstays of the attacks. It is for them that the heavy Tanner line seeks to rip open holes.

Charley St. Paul, quarterback and passer is the key to the aerial attack while Art Drivas and Frank Connors, a pair of sturdy ends, are his best receivers.

Two standouts in the Peabody line all year have been the guards, Capt. Paul Wallace, 165, and huge Raymond Potter, 235. Opposing teams have found it futile to direct plays at the line sector guarded by Potter, who bulls his way through and spills ball-carriers for losses repeatedly.

A Message from Ed Cahill

DAILY EVENING ITEM

Established December 8, 1877

Hi'ya Fans:

Another banner football season is on us here in the Capitol of Schoolboy Football. And it's difficult to think of schoolboy football in Greater Lynn without thinking of the ITEM.

We like it that way. We purposely feature the local schoolboy grid attractions on our new, expanded Sport Pages. And we propose to continue this thorough coverage---complete with action photographs, statistics, and day-to-day highlights.

Realizing that thousands of North Shore fans are keenly interested in these high school attractions, we have gone beyond this; and, for the second consecutive year, the ITEM will broadcast all games played in Manning Bowl this fall by both Lynn schools. We'll be here for all of them--your radio friend, Eddie Jaffee and myself, giving you all the dope.

So, if you can't be with us here for an on-the-scene view of the action, don't fret. Tune us in via Station WESX for a play-by-play account of what's going on. And re-live the games next day in the sports columns of the ITEM.

We think you'll enjoy both the broadcasts and the stories. You'll find the ITEM habit is a mighty good habit.

Yours in Sport,

Ed Cahill

SPORTS EDITOR.

It is an old fallacy . . . long ago disproven . . . that advertising adds to the cost of a commodity. "Sure, it's good . . . but you have to pay for the advertising" used to be a typical know-it-all comment. Today, the smart shopper is aware that just the reverse is true. Advertising brings down prices! Advertising sells more . . . increases production . . . brings down costs . . . naturally brings down the price to consumers.

Advertising . . . especially advertising on a national scope . . . does this, too: It places a definite responsibility on the advertiser toward the consumer . . . a responsibility to establish and maintain certain high standards of quality in design, manufacturer and distribution. The advertiser must live up to his advertising message . . . must build a reputation for integrity . . . because, you see, just advertising in itself is not enough.

That is why we at Young's like to feature nationally advertised merchandise. We have confidence in it. We feel it is honestly made and that you will be happy with it . . . that you will get the utmost value per dollar spent. This is just another facet in Young's friendly way of doing business . . . a successful policy for almost a half century.
